12. Verbatim Report of The Debate on The Indian Civil Service in the House of Commons, June 29, 1875 [And:] Opinions of the Press on the Debate of the 29th of June, 1875, in the House of Commons, On the Indian Civil Service. 1st Ed., orig. printed wraps., 48pp., foolscap. J. Wakeham, Printer, Kensington. August 1875
Report of the debate plus press opinions contained in the last 10 pages. The debate particularly concerned “the position of the civilians in the N.W. Provinces of India” who felt that they were victims of a “scandalous breach of faith on the part of the Government,” i.e. “Lord Dalhousie gave a pledge that half the Commissionerships & Assistant Commissionerships in the Punjab & Oudh should be given to the civilians of those provinces. But the promise has been flagrantly broken. Many of the best posts have been systematically conferred on military officers without any legal or scholastic education, & with no claim but the favour of some high dignitary at Calcutta...” Interesting debate with matter ranging all over India, not just the aforementioned territories. Wraps. somewhat foxed/stained, generally VG. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 54708] £45

Scarce memoir of Col. Frederick Gustavus Burnaby (1842-1885). An Army officer & voyager, commissioned in the Horse Guards in 1859 but finding no opportunities for active service contrived to accompany Carlist forces in Spain as 'Times' correspondent in 1874; then travelled across Europe and Central Asia, earning great fame for his feats of exploration & intelligence gathering; took an early interest in aerial ballooning, spoke several foreign languages fluently, stood for parliament twice, & was much admired & feted in London Society. Yet he had still no experience with the British Army on campaigns, so went to Egypt for the Suakin campaign 1884 without official leave; there acted as Intelligence Officer to Gen. Valentine Baker & wounded at El Teb. In a similar capacity he accompanied Wolseley in the 1885 Nile expedition, when he was killed in hand-to-hand fighting at Abu Klea. THE FIRST WORLD WAR: GENERAL HISTORY & MEMOIRS

119. Colwyn Erasmus Arnold Phillipps, Captain, Royal Horse Guards. Born Dec. 11, 1888, Killed in Action near Ypres, May 13, 1915. 2nd Ed., xiii+128pp., 2 portraits. Smith, Elder. 1915
Colwyn Phillipps was born in 1888, educated at Farnborough School, Eton & Sandhurst, commissioned into the Royal Horse Guards in 1908. Promoted to Lieutenant in 1909. He joined his regiment in France at the beginning of November 1914, was killed in action east of Ypres on 13th May 1915 and is commemorated on the Menin Gate Memorial. He was twenty-six and was Mentioned in Despatches. Includes poetry and prose compositions by the subject (some with war themes), and forty pages of extracts from letters from the Front, November 1914-April 1915 (mostly written to his mother). During the First Battle of Ypres he wrote: "We are taking part in a most amazing battle: we are holding a V that sticks out into the German lines; the result is that we have two fronts facing different ways and shells come from all directions... all our fighting is in these beastly trenches, forty-eight hours at a time and up to your knees in water. It is not cold but horrid wet... The first thing we learn out here is to forget about 'Glory.' Your regiment is no good when it is dead, and your job is to retire rather than be wiped out... we have no chance of really beating the Germans here, and if we hold on the Russians may win for us..." Vellum binding, gilt titles to sp. & front, little discoloured but VG with inscrip. from his father to half-title "Merial Howard 1916. From Lord St. Davids." See illustration on our website. [Ref: 57836] £65

136. BOMBARDIER "X" So This Was War! The Truth About the Western & Eastern Fronts Revealed. 1st Ed., 224pp., 16 photos. Hutchinson. nd.
Gunner's letters from the Western Front & Salonika: the anonymous author apparently enlisted aged 16 early in the war, & in a Preface Shaw Desmond (pseud. of Charles Nathaniel Lowe Shaw: writer, & Founder of the International Institute for Psychical Research) explains that "He tells not only of howling 'H.E,' or of whining bullet, of suffocating gas, but also of those other horrors, none the less grisly, that lie in wait to trip the flying feet of eager, high-spirited youth. Of pleasant vice that hides disease. Of the dysentery that tears at the bowels of a man... The trench songs, the flash of the cards & the flash of eyes, & of steel, in the estaminets... The monstrous, over-fed rats, lolloping from corpse to corpse..." - Falls would no doubt have had much to say about these themes & about some of the author's stories, such as a quarrel between a Scottish corporal & a coloured soldier that he witnessed in Amiens: "The Scotsman had, apparently, passed some nasty remark which the West Indian resented. High words were followed by a wicked tussle. Steel glistened in the murkey light of spluttering candles, & as the big black man dropped, twisting to the floor, a nasty, curved knife fell from his twitching hand. The Corporal was arrested & led away, blood dripping from his naked bayonet." A classic in-depth account of one twelve day tour in the trenches on the Somme with 'B' Coy., 2nd West Yorkshire Regiment by the company commander. VG in chipped dw, sl. creased at edges, but striking & scarce dw (the publisher's sleeve notes opining that "The terror & boredom of it all are not forgotten, but neither is the sympathy & fellowship bred out of the dangers & the strain. The simplicity of the writing & the faithfulness with which the mirror is held up to trench life give a reflection that is particularly vivid, & one that is certain to bring back a flood of recollections to those who shared his experiences & yet present the younger generation with the unbiased picture which they have so far lacked.") See illustration on our website. [Ref: 54730] £125

234. ROSSITER (Ivan, of the 1st & 3rd Canadian Mounted Rifles) In Kultured Kaptivity: Life & Death in Germany's Prison Camps & Hospitals. 1st Ed., [vii]+244pp., portrait frontis. Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merrill. 1918

Author served with 1st CMR in France 1915-16 (he had originally enlisted in the 3rd CMR) in a dismounted role & was captured in a large German raid at Sanctuary Wood in June 1916. He describes these experience with immedicay & eloquence e.g., the night before going back to the line near Ypres: "Thirteenth Platoon was making a night of it. Pay-day had come & all the boys had money... We were gathered in the hut at C Camp near Outerham [sic]... & a big game of poker was in progress. Those that were not playing were looking on... The hut was filled with smoke, & every one was trying to talk at once. But every sound was hushed when Sergeant Forbes gave his order..." Instead of an expected rest the 1st CMR was going back up to Sanctuary Wood. There, the German attack came, & Rossiter was wounded & captured, ending up in several German hospitals & camps before being exchanged. He describes his experiences with interesting detail. Orig. green cloth, somewhat rubbed & worn but scarce, with author's presentation inscrip. "'Miss Annie Spencer. Edinburgh, Scot. With the author's best wishes. Sincerely Ivan S. Rossiter. Unusual WW1 novel. Sleeve note states: "An interesting (though historically quite unreliable) record of the fearful risks which surrounded any normal hero engaged in the superintendence of the purchase of Army Clothing during the Great War: showing how important it was to be extremely careful where & with whom one took lucnh & what one said to her... told in a manner calculated to make your wife wonder why you have suddenly become so cheerful. For this novel is not only meant to be funny but really is - extremely." Rare, especially in the striking dw designed by Frank C. Mitoffel. Near fine in sl. chipped dw. See illustration on our website. [Ref: 54720] £250

267. WRIGHT (Capt. Peter E.) At the Supreme War Council. 1st USA Ed. (with new Preface by the author), [vi]+201pp., 8 portraits, fldg. map. NY: Putnam. 1921

Wright was an Assistant Secretary at the Military Section, involved with forward planning & predicting military requirements ahead, & Ian Beckett (in The First World War & British Military History) suggests that he only avoided “prosecution for revealing the deliberations of the SWC largely because it was felt that action would also have to be taken against FM Lord French...” Falls condemned it as an attack on Haig & eulogy of Foch & Henry Wilson, saying “in military matters he is a light-weight.” This edition includes a new specially written Preface in which the author responds to the “many & hostile critics” who had greeted the publication of the book in England. Also contains portraits of war leaders not present in the UK Ed. Orig. dark maroon cloth, gilt, sp. dull & hinges a little pulled o/w VG with author’s presentation inscrip. & monograph on half title: To Tess From the Author. PEW. See illustrations on our website. [Ref: 52892] £30

336. GIANI (Kesar Singh) Indian Independence Movement in East Asia: The Most Authentic Account of The I.N.A. & The Azad Hind Government. Compiled from original official records. With a Foreword by Sriyut Sarat Chandra Bose. 1st Ed., 144+[ii]+164pp., frontis. ("Memorial to the Azad Hind Martyrs at Singapore"), two plates with decorative edging in the colours of the Indian national flag: (i) Sri Rash Behari Bose & Gen. Mohan Singh (ii) Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose; 119 further photos., being portraits of prominent Azad Hind Leaders, INA officers, &c., also INA training & parades, the Rani of Jhansi Regt., &c. VG in sl. chipped dw. Lahore: Singh Brothers. Jan. 1947

This work, based on the official records of the Azad Hind (Free India) movement & its military arm, the Indian National Army (INA) & compiled by the Civil Administrator of the Provisional Government of Free India, constitutes the official history of the two closely inter-linked organisations. It contains a full account of the establishment of the AH & INA, several conferences in Tokyo, during which various Indian Nationals in exile - most notably Subhas Chandra Bose, formerly a member of the Indian National Congress - in concert with the Japanese, organised a Provisional Government of Free India, based in the Andaman Islands (the only part of India available) & claiming sovereignty over the people of India, although recognised only by Japan & her allies in the East. The military wing, the INA, comprised 40,000 troops, mainly PoWs taken in Malaya & Singapore, augmented by Indian civilian expats. The INA fought alongside the Japanese in the March on Delhi & Battle of Imphal; apparently they were not effective in action & were, naturally, despised by their former comrades of the (British) Indian Army whom they fought in Burma. Little quarter was given by the loyal Indian soldiers when they faced the INA in action. Following on from the political machinations of the movement, this work contains an account of the INA's build-up to active operations & its active service with much interesting detail although exaggerating their achievements. Also includes an account of their training, citations for gallantry awards given to members, then finally a short account of the INA trials at the Red Fort in Delhi post-1945: the rank & file were allowed to return home with no punishment for their disloyalty other than forfeiture of their (British) Indian Army pension; the 300 or so officers were charged with treason & awarded various terms of imprisonment. Bose himself - or Netaji as he was known to his followers - was killed in an air crash, conveniently preventing his achieving martyr status. Post-war, the INA and the Azad Hind - enemies of the Raj & of the Indian National Congress - have gradually reached the status of freedom fighters. From whatever point of view one approaches this awkward subject, this rare work offers the most complete account of the AH/INA known to us.
